HEAD COACHING RECORDS

Joe Kelley was named the first head coach in IU women's soccer history on Dec. 21, 1992 by Indiana University Director of Athletics Clarence Doninger. Kelley had previously served as an assistant coach for the men's program at Indiana under head coach Jerry Yeagley for 15 seasons and was a member of the 1975 Indiana men's soccer team. He guided the Hoosiers to a 12-6 record his first season and finished the year on a 9-game winning streak. Kelley also helped the Hoosiers to a pair of NCAA Tournament appearances in his nine seasons at the helm of the program and won the 1996 Big Ten Tournament with three straight shutouts. Part of his first recruiting class was Wendy Dillinger, who would go on to hold the career records at IU for goals (37), points (98) and assists (24). He coached five First Team All-Big Ten honorees as well as the first All-American in IUWS history - Tracy Grose (1998).

Mick Lyon was named the head coach of the women's soccer program at Indiana on June 18, 2002. He came to Indiana after serving as head coach at the University of Evansville for nine seasons following a stellar playing career with the Purple Aces. Lyon mentored five First Team All-Big Ten players and two NSCAA All-Region players during his 11 years as head coach of the Hoosiers. His best season came in 2007, when IU posted a 13-7-3 mark and advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the third time in program history. The 2009 season saw the Hoosiers set a then-school record by reeling off six straight wins to open the season, including a 2-1 overtime win against No. 6 Florida at Bill Armstrong Stadium - the highest ranked opponent the Hoosiers have ever defeated. The native of England recruited Orianica Velasquez from the South American country of Columbia. She would become the first IUWS player to compete in the World Cup (2011) and the Olympics (2012). Lyon announced his retirement following the 2012 season.
